Preface

More than 15 lac people are diagnosed with cancer in India every year. Out of these, appx 42% viz. 6.3 lac fall in the working age group of 25 to 55 years. Again, 75% of patients in B and C grade cities migrate for treatment. Such large scale migration severely deters the earning potential of these families since normally patients are accompanied by male earning members. At an estimate, earning capabilities of over 8.5 lac families are impacted in india alone every year and the direct cost to GDP is a whopping Rs 400 Bn (Rs 40,000 crore) p.a.

Project “Survive” was conceived by Win Over Cancer in the year 2015 as a possible solution to this phenomenon. We decided to create alternate earning capabilities in such families. This was envisaged by putting a member of such families under a compatible skill training program and then helping them to be self-employed or get a job. A mobile application mapping over 67,000 skill development centers across India was launched earlier last year to facilitate searching of centers near beneficiary’s house. Corporate like Tally Solutions came forward to partner in this program and fund the cost of scholarships and operational costs.

This year, 45 candidates have been enrolled under the “Win Over Cancer – Tally-Together” program and applications of 4 candidates are under evaluation.

With our mutual efforts 16 youngsters have been successfully placed in jobs after completing their training. 29 candidates are undergoing training. All these have been benefited from scholarships after a detailed due diligence of their medical and socio-economic background.

Summary

A support of Rs 6 lac by Tally for this program has provided 49 cancer impacted families to achieve long term financial sustainability.

Key highlights of the impact created by this program:

- i) All candidates are from rural background and hail from poor or lower middle-class families
- ii) Cancer made them a fighter! Many of these decided to travel upto 52 kms one way to be trained and become self-sustainable
- iii) Most of the candidates were forced to quit their studies mid-way and were looking for odd jobs to meet both ends. Without the mentoring and training under the program, they would have probably ended as unskilled labour. Now they have a career!
- iv) All these candidates placed so far are earning more than their overall family income from first month onwards
- v) Monthly earning of most of the candidates is more that the scholarship awarded to them. On an annualized basis, Social Return on Investment (SROI)” from this program is a whopping 12 times!

We look forward for more like minded citizens to come forward and support the cause. Let us save lives, let us contribute in building a new India!
